By your co-operation we shall make this the banner year in our business and will enable us to continue selling goods on a closer margin
Thanks for the past favors. Remember our motto:

CONN BROTHERS.

Lancaster, Ky.

Washington's birthday, February 22d, falls on Sunday this year. Alas, poor kiddies.

Monday February 23d is "Groundhog's day". Much depends upon whether or not "he sees his shadow".

What has come of the local Charity organization? We understand there is work for such a body in Lancaster at present.

Will the fact that the far seeing housewife has already begun saving up eggs for setting have any effect on the egg market? Surely we hope not.

Luke McLuke says: "what has become of the old time lady who wore yarn stockings and whose daughter now wears her watch where her garter should be worn?"

They are now talking about putting a heavy tax on all bachelors of forty years or over. This would be one way of helping to decrease the deficit in the State treasury.

Is President Taft, who tells Yale men to be loyal to the Constitution and beware of the demagogue, going to hold down a chair of anti-Rooseveltism and try to get even with Theodore?

We have new pianos ready for inspection. Also one slightly used piano for sale at a bargain.

Will also have piano tuner highly recommended, phone me your orders. Rella Arnold.

Following his pre-election promise to stand for re-nomination, our representative, Hon. J. R. Mount, promptly voted against the proposition for a goodly bunch of extra help at the present session of the legislature.

It appears that the destruction of a $250. plate glass window by a cheap plug horse would justify the enactment of an ordinance prohibiting the allowing of horses left loose, unhitched and unattended on the public square.

House For Rent.

Having decided to leave Lancaster, will rent my house of twelve rooms, two porches, barn with five stalls, good garden and large yard.
1-23-13. Webb Raney, Lancaster, Ky.

Notice.

Those having claims against the estate of the J. P. Long, will present same within the next ten days, properly proven, to J. W. Elmore, at the Garrard Bank and Trust Co. Those knowing themselves indebted to the said J. P. Long are asked to call and settle at once.

J. W. Elmore and Robert Long, Agents for the heirs.

Property Rented.

Mr. Calvin Travis of the Hubble vicinity has rented of Mr. G. A. Swinebroad his property on Danville street known as the Shugars place, and has already taken possession.

Rural Route Business Growing Heavy.

Mr. Carlton Elkin, carrier on Rural route No. 3, the Buckeye route, has just received a handsome new wagon of the regulation type, which he has placed in service on his run.

A Successful Live Stock Broker.

Dr. Prior has just returned from Bismuth Mountain, where he purchased a couple of car loads of unbroken horses which he disposed of at Al. Bernierle Kansas, at a handsome profit.

Completes Nice Job.

Mr. Harry Jacobs dropped into the Record office last week and had his name entered on our subscription books. Mr. Jacobs has just completed the putting up of a handsome and expensive monument over the late A. B. Estridge.

Burton Back From Atlanta.

Mr. W. B. Burton returned Wednesday from Atlanta Ga., where he went in search of mules. Mr. Burton was accompanied by Mr. J. H. Price, each of them taking with them a half car of mules, which they succeeded in filling out at the Atlanta market. Mr. Burton shipped his car to Wilson N. C., while Mr. Price's load went to Townsville S. C. Mr. Burton bought the best the market afforded and was compelled to pay a fancy price, considerably over $200. per head for them.

DOES THIS LOOK LIKE RETRENCHMENT OR ECONOMY?

We heard a great deal about economy and retrenchment before the general assembly convened. The members of this body were busy telling the people how badly retrenchment and economy were needed, and promised that this session of the legislature would reduce the states expense account. The assembly costs the state about $1700 per day. That body convened on Monday, January 5th, held brief sessions for two days, then adjourned till January 12th, four days of doing nothing, $6,800 of the money of the tax payers spent without any return. In the two days, appropriations amounting to about $10,000 were made, most of which goes for salaries of extra officers and employees of the state. First week nearly $17,000 spent for nothing. Does this look like economy or retrenchment?

A Gently Hint.

If our Subscribers will open their hearts and purses sufficiently to enable us to connect with a suit of clothes to accompany the ties, socks, and hankerchiefs so richly bestowed by Yuletide friends, who knows but what we might fall into church-going habit again?—Somerset Journal.

Should Be Suppressed.

The daily press tells us that a lady who predicted the Galveston tidal wave, the San Francisco earthquake, and various other awful calamities, is now predicting that we shall have unprecedented cold weather during February. Talk about your "calamity howlers", this one sure is the limit!

Looking Ahead.

Electricity is no more powerful today than it was in the age of Columbus. We have only put a saddle and bridle to it, and ridden it to market. The future may well smile at our clumsy horsemanship, and wonder why we were so slow about enslaving the ether waves to produce "cold light."

More Improvements.

Mr. W. T. West has about completed a public garage on his lot on Lexington street near the public square. He will immediately put a modern front in the old post-office building, adjoining the newly erected garage, and when completed this will be one of the handsomest store rooms in the city.

Should Buckle Down To Work.

The legislators should remember that they have been sent to Frankfort to transact the people's business, and, in that connection, should not overlook the fact that, while their predecessors drew from the treasury $600 a day, they are drawing $1,350 a day, and should strive to earn their money.

Pool Room Property Changes Hands.

County Attorney Green Clay Walker has purchased of Postmaster W. T. West his Storeroom on the north side of the public square occupied as a pool room for $3600. This is one of the most commodious pieces of business property on the square, and we understand Mr. Walker will make extensive improvements on his purchase.

Speith & Co. Makes Considerable Purchase.

Messrs Speith & Co. the local tobacco buyers, we understand have made an unusual large purchase in this county during the present season and many farmers unhesitatingly state that they have done better by marketing their product at home than if they had sought a distant market. And yet we are told that a Loose Leaf Market in Lancaster is not plausible.

New Store.

It is gratifying to the friends of Mr. C. D. Powell to know that he is back in the mercantile business again, having just opened up a general merchandise store in the storeroom adjoining the warehouse of Mr. F. B. Marksbury near the depot. He will gladly welcome his old friends and promises them more goods for the money than they can get anywhere in town.

Following In Our Footsteps.

The pathway of the bootlegger and the illegal vender of spirituous liquors is becoming exceedingly rugged in the cities of Richmond and Danville, and many convictions are being had for these offenses. They are but following the course which has been pursued in Lancaster for so many years until we have come to be noted for having a town that is absolutely free from such offenses. A bootlegger is never allowed to ply his calling for a time in Lancaster, and his first offense usually proves his undoing.

Business Change At Paint Lick.

Messrs Samuel Denny and Robert Walker have purchased a one half interest in the mercantile establishment of Woods and Treadway at Paint Lick, involving is now in progress and they will go into possession of their new acquisition as soon as that is completed. With the old established firm of Woods & Treadway augmented by the addition of two such popular and progressive young men as Sam Denny and Bob Walker, there is surely going to be "something doing" in the mercantile world in Paint Lick in the near future and larger cities are going to be put to it to meet the competition at this lively little burg.

Like All The Rest.

William Miller who claims his home as Rowland, Richmond and various other places as may suit his convenience was caught red handed by Chief Herron last week dispensing liquor by the drink at so much per drink. He was taken before Judge Prather and given minimum fine of $50. and 10 days in jail. Chief Herron has two other cases against him, but will doubtless not prosecute them, but in order to rid the community of a worthless white character and at the same time furnish a warning to others who have aspirations to sell liquor in Lancaster, will turn him over to the tender mercies of the Federal authorities. This will also save the city the expense of his keep for the time of his sentence.

We are glad the editor of the Interior Journal is doing such wonderful things at Frankfort and has received such marked recognition because he can fill up his paper "all about himself". Next to writing about Shelton Saufley he likes to write about Joe Robinson and as some of his subscribers think the exploits of both poor reading matter we would rather they would be bored with his name than ours.

We find our MODEST and truth calculating neighbor, Mr. Shelton Saufley, of the Interior Journal, saying editorially in his last issue: "If editor Joe Robinson is so anxious to get out opposition to Congressman Helm, why don't he run himself? We understand that many of his friends believe that he is suitable congressional timber. We believe ourselves, that he is. You run, Joe, and see if you can beat Harvey. Don't try to make someone else the goat."

Well, with that Goliath of Democratic strength, the "Watch Dog" of the state treasury, who promises to his constituents of Lincoln County in prayerful words the day before the election—Economy—and the day after he assumes his duties at Frankfort votes for an extravagant and unconstitutional appropriation, with all this power of strength in the good old county of our birth and young manhood turning the people of our childhood against us in rage, not permitting us the honor of a single friend perhaps makes us rather "bear the ills we have".

We might for a moment consider contesting with the Hon. Harvey Helm, but to contemplate the idea of diverting Shelton Saufley from the absorbing satisfaction of blowing long and loud his own horn all the time through the columns of the Interior Journal about his big deeds and doings in the legislature to a little Congressional race, Oh banish, the thought.

To start that Editor on a campaign of slander, falsehood and misrepresentation against another in addition to his against Congressman Stanley and Judge Charley Hardin, we are intimidated. He might slip some more political dope to his angel, the Louisville Post. Excuse us please this time.

Our Loss Stanford's Gain.

It is with deep regret the patrons of the Bastin Telephone Co. give up Miss Sara Reid who goes to Stanford to work in that exchange. Always in a good humor, at all times accommodating, the pleasant voice of Miss Sara will be missed and we congratulate Stanford upon having such a young lady in their exchange.

Stock Pens, New, Modern And Commodious Being Erected In Lancaster.

Mr. John N. Ross, proprietor of the Lancaster Stock Yards in making great improvements at his yards on Stanford street. He has had the lumber sawed at his farm near town and is pushing to rapid completion an addition 160 X 60 feet which he hopes to have ready by county court day. He will have clean, dry, covered sheds and pens, and when completed expects to be able to accommodate from 500 to 800 head of stock, and will have all modern conveniences, and will be second to no pens in Central Kentucky. Mr. Ross expects to expend about $1500 in the improvements.

Cochran-Rucker.

Mr. O. C. Rucker, of Paint Lick, more familiarly known as "Pig" was married to Miss Pearl Cochran, of White Station, on Wednesday afternoon in this city, Rev. F. M. Tindler performing the ceremony at his residence on Stanford street. The happy event while known to the immediate families of the contracting parties, was quite a surprise to the host of friends of this popular young couple. Mr. Rucker is a splendid young man and now holds the position of assistant cashier at the Peoples Bank.

The bride is beautiful and accomplished and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Cochran, of Madison county. After the ceremony they motored to the home of the grooms parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Rucker, where they will remain for several weeks, after which time they will go to housekeeping in Paint Lick. The Record with the friends of this happy couple, wish them a life of unalloyed happiness.

LARGER HONOR ROLL.

Who Will Be On Next Week?

When we meet our friends upon the streets and are greeted with praises for the Record we feel determined to make the next issue the best. While a letter from some "out of the county" reader saying that the "last issue" was the best that ever came out of the office, we just get up from our desk and pass the word to the last member of the force that even more is expected in the future. We had thought all along that we had been doing our best to give you the country newspaper that you are entitled to but we find that our readers with a good word for the paper and a dollar or two on your subscription can do wonders in helping in it all.

From the way our good friends have come to our help they must know something about the big job of moving our office and have heard about the expensive machinery we have bought and installed in our new plant. A large number of our friends will be in Lancaster next court day. Remember that the latch string to our office, on Richmond street, in the CENTRAL RECORD BUILDING is always on the outside. Walk right in. We still want to hear the good word. Indeed, we want the paper to merit it. But we would like for you to continue to help us with the subscription for last year and a year in advance if you feel like it, for we want you on the honor roll. Come and see the new plant any way. We are happy to name so many who have answered our distress this week.

An Open Winter.

Wheat is looking unusually well and barring the coming of severe cold weather will prove a successful crop. Farmers are taking advantage of the opportunity and much plowing has been completed; active preparations, such as the clearing of ground and gathering of material, is under way for the burning of tobacco beds, and the tobacco crop during this year promises to come well up to the average as far as acreage is concerned. Considering the high price and scarcity of feedstuffs and roughness, stock will emerge from the cold season in good condition, and the farmer exceeds to start the years work under auspicious conditions. They are now anxiously awaiting the prognostications of the ground hog, who will make his appearance on Feb. 2d and the work from now on will be cut out to conform to his predictions.

Are We To Have A Fair This Year.

Surely the above question should be answered in the affirmative. With the growing interest in horses, mules and all classes of livestock that now exists in Garrard county, surely the promoters of this industry cannot allow another year to pass without a fair in the county. Other counties have successful fairs, why not Garrard? There is but one thing which prevents the holding of a good exhibition in this county every year, and that is the lack of someone to take the initiative and organize a stock company, subscriptions for the stock to finance the venture could easily be secured far in excess of the amount necessary. It appears to us that the farmers and stockmen of the county are the ones most vitally interested. Then why not take up the matter and arrange for a successful exhibition this year. No use to defer the matter. It takes both time and talent, and the sooner we begin the sooner will an exhibition be insured. Some of you horse and mule men think over this matter and let's get together and organize. No trouble to get co-operation and encouragement, just try it.

Grip Of The Trust Will Be Broken.

What has heretofore been considered the most perplexing question for the Government to handle now seems fairly on the way of solution. Congressman A. O. Stanley after the exhaustive enquiry into the doings of the Steel Trust in reporting the findings to Congress, sent out the first completed remedy. He suggested that no person be permitted to serve as a director on more than one Board of Directors in a competing corporation.

It was found that monopoly was created largely by the directors of what was supposed to be competing concerns being composed of the same persons. In contemplation of this proposed legislation a number of the "Masters of Finance" are already resigning from the directorate of all except one board.

Now, Mr. Stanley after a conference, with President Wilson introduces, as the Administrations representative, a law to abate the "Rule of Reason" as laid down by the Supreme Court. With these two laws upon the Statute books a monopoly or trust would be practically impossible.

To The Tobacco Growers of Garrard and adjoining Counties:

We have been giving each week as near an accurate report of the condition of our market as it was possible for us to do, this without coloring simple facts. We believe that we have been here long enough for our statements to pass without question, as facts at last is all that enters in the court. We sold during the week just closed 433,000 pounds of tobacco. The entire market up to Saturday had sold 4,285,596 pounds. The Madison House Sold 2,268,585 pounds of this, more than both other houses by over a quarter of a million. We are not boasting, we are simply pleased over your confidence in us and our methods. Then again we say The Madison Still Leads In Pounds and Prices. While the weeks average was a shade lower than last week it will compare favorably with it, considering the quality of tobacco offered and the dry weather. No real fancy tobacco was offered. We still believe that we have the strongest market in the STATE. We sold on Monday the 19th over 70,000 lbs., and the market opened up Monday from one to two dollars per hundred higher for all grades. We give below some of the best prices obtained throughout the week:

Whittaker & McCreary, Madison Co. 2435 lbs. average $17.25; Gulley & Prather, Garrard Co. 3560 lbs. average $19.15; B. T. Lunsford, Garrard Co. 1905 lbs. average $17.29; Prather & Sons, Garrard Co. 3805 lbs. average $16.15; Nat. Prewitt, Garrard Co. 2720 lbs. average $16.27; Million & Long, Madison Co. 3935 lbs. average $16.80; J. Q. Oldfield, Madison Co. 2090 lbs. average $15.90; T. J. Curtis & Son, 6865 lbs., average $15.85; D. N. Long, Garrard Co. 1950 lbs. average $17.75, one basket of this bringing $20.50 per hundred; J. J. Kirby, Madison Co. 2572 lbs. average $15.90. Last two crops sold on Monday.

We expect the same strong market to obtain throughout the season. Tobacco is coming in more slowly which will give us a better opportunity to give each and every seller individual attention, and to assist him in securing every cent for his tobacco that can be gotten; our experience in the market is your gain.

We thank you once again for your very liberal patronage and hope that we can be of service to you in the matter of getting the top prices for your tobacco. Call on us day or night, we will be glad to see you.

We are very sincerely and gratefully,

The Madison Tobacco Warehouse Company.

PAYS TO SHOW APPRECIATION

Results of Experiments Made in Broad-Minded Way Have Been More Than Gratifying.

The pride that most men of whatever station take in their work can be utilized by making each worker feel that he is an efficiency engineer in his own sphere. If he is made to understand that the problem of efficiency is not a matter of abstruse calculation and lengthy red tape, but a simple process of obtaining the greatest results with the least effort, he is bound to be interested. If the expert poses, not as a dictator, but rather as a teacher—and proves his ability for the role—the men, nine times out of ten, will respond.

Another feature of this get-together type of proceeding that is important. It is the giving of credit for good ideas to the originator. I recall a case in point, where the problem happened to be the designing of a simple system of cards to cover a complicated series of operations. A shipping clerk, whose interest had been aroused, offered a suggestion which resulted in cutting down the number of cards to be made out for one department two-thirds. It was customary to print in small letters on all the forms "Designed by the B. V. Co." On these particular cards the man in charge of the work substituted "Designed by A. N. K."—the initials of the shipping clerk. The latter, greatly pleased by this evidence of appreciation, at once set to work evolving other ideas, many of which were sound and well worth adopting. Naturally, the incident became noised about in the shop and served to convince the men of the broad-minded attitude of the expert.—Engineering Magazine.

TRAINING AS POWER EXPERT

Subject That in America Has Not Been Given the Attention That It Deserves.

Power is one of the greatest factors in modern-day work. The thousand and one branches of it offer admirable fields for conquest by vigor and brains. In the field of power a few concerns have assisted men to obtain vocational training. From the boiler room have risen men by successive stages to positions of grave responsibility. In an issue of Power neglect in this branch of vocational training in the United States is commented upon as follows:

"Power is a factor in all the important affairs of modern life," says a writer and thinker, and necessarily the engineer, who makes that power, is also a factor in that the whole purpose is not merely to 'make the wheels go round,' but to turn them at a profit. Furthermore, electricity, the steam turbine and the waterwheel have made the engineer's vocation even more difficult, demanding a degree of operating skill that is well-nigh impossible to acquire in some cases without special training.

"We are told that of all the great nations, ours is the most deficient in vocational development. Germany forty years ago saw its need and met it; England, Scotland, France, Austria, Switzerland, Norway, Sweden and Denmark are all paying heed to it. If we would successfully compete in our own chosen field with the large immigration yearly coming to our shores we must find the means to equally educate our own people in their vocations."

Fortunes in Sausages.
Westphalia, in Prussia, is the home of the sausage. There, it is said, a trader will name no fewer than 400 different kinds of sausage. A sausage exhibition was held recently in Germany, at which 1,000 varieties of sausages were shown.

In this connection the story is told of a young Prussian who, though he had received an expensive training as a chemist, shut himself up in his laboratory, and instead of devising a new dye, safety match, motor engine, explosive, aeroplane or photographic lens, took pork, veal, olives, pepper, fennel, old wine, cheese, apples, cinnamon and herring's roe and from them evolved a wonderful and totally original "wurst," the best of its kind. He has amassed a considerable fortune from its sale.

More Tractable as He Grows Older.
"I find myself mellowing up as the years pass by," confessed Hod Durnitt. "Formerly I would go into a frenzy over 'most any unimportant thing, but when the 'Mona Lisa' was stolen I didn't care a jam, and now that it has been recovered I still don't care a jam." Used to be that when anything occurred that I disapproved of I forthwith swept a place and had a furious fit; but nowadays it has to be something of consequence and some of my business before I rend my raiment and throw dust in the air. Without doubt old age is creeping on me apace, as the fellow said.—Kansas City Star.

Versatile Da Vinci.
When Leonardo Da Vinci was not painting Mona Lisa or modeling great equestrian statues or inventing cannon, catapults, flutes, mechanical lions, patent pumps or scaling ladders, he would amuse himself by little excursions into anatomy, astronomy, physics, chemistry, philosophy, dietetics, the philosophy of dress or city planning.

If all these activities are not enough, Da Vinci was also an author of treatises on painting and other subjects, and even on many an occasion extemporized verses.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson IV.—First Quarter, For Jan. 25, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Luke viii, 1-3; ix, 38-42—Memory Verses, Luke x, 40-42—Golden Text, Matt. xxv, 40—Commentary by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The title of this lesson, "Ministering to Jesus," is a fascinating one and is found in chapter viii, 3, concerning the women who ministered unto Him of their substance. Angels delighted to minister unto Him when He was here in humiliation, as they did in the wilderness after His conflict with the devil (Matt. iv, 11); also at His birth and in Gethsemane and at His resurrection and no doubt always, according to Ps. ciii, 20, 21, where we read of them as ministers of His that do His pleasure, hearkening unto the voice of His word.

What an honor unspeakable for us who are saved sinners, to minister in any way unto Him who made us, who came from heaven to redeem us, who died for our sins, who as the risen Christ lives for us at God's right hand and will share His kingdom and glory with us. He was always showing the glad tidings of the Kingdom of God (Matt. ix, 11) and giving supplies of life in the Kingdom by healing all manner of disease (Matt. ix, 25, for when the Kingdom comes "the inhabitant shall not say, I am sick, and the people that dwell therein shall be forgiven their iniquity" (Isa. xxxiii, 24).

Efficiency of sin is the first step toward the Kingdom, as we learn from Luke xxiv, 48, 47; Acts xiii, 28, 29, and that this is the privilege of all who receive Him is plainly set forth in Eph. i, 6, 7; Col. i, 12-14; Rev. i, 5, 6. We must not think of the church as the Kingdom; we are Christ in His Kingdom, but that spoken of by our Lord when He taught us to pray, "Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done, as in heaven, so on earth" (Luke xi, 2). It will begin with Israel, who shall be all righteous, and of them shall know Him from the least of them unto the greatest of them.

Jerusalem shall be the throne of the Lord, and all the nations shall be gathered unto it to the name of the Lord for it shall be the first city of truth on earth (Isa. lx, 21; Jer. xxxi, 34; Ill. 17; Zech. viii, 3, 7, 8, 22, 23). While we wait for the Kingdom and live to hasten it (but extend it, for we cannot extend that which has not yet begun) we may daily minister unto Him in all that we do. These women were true believers, and all believers are kings and priests unto God (Rev. i, 5, 6). We are reminded of a sentence concerning the priests in Israel, "That he may minister unto me in the priest's office" (Ex. xxviii, 1, 2, 4, and elsewhere), these ten words being the translation of two little words in Hebrew.

The words "unto Him" in verse 3 of this part of our lesson suggest many most helpful words for our daily life, such as "Unto Him that loved us," "Unto Him that is able," "Unto Him be glory," "Unto Him who died for us and rose again" (Rev. i, 5; Eph. iii, 20, 21; I Cor. v, 15). As to the women ministering, note Paul's reference to the women who labored with him in the gospel (Phil. iv, 3); that the gospel was first preached in Europe at a woman's prayer meeting, and the first convert seems to have been Lydia, who received the apostles into her house and took care of them (Acts xvi, 13-15). Note also the revised version of Ps. lxxviii, 11.

Whatever He may give us the privilege of doing, He only expects us to do as He gives the ability, and our aim must be that God in all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ (I Pet. iv, 11). However much we may be able to do, we should always say as David did, "All things come of thee, and of thine own have we given thee" (I Chron. xxix, 11).

In the second part of our lesson we have a home scene, that blessed and honored home in Bethany, and the two sisters ministering, each in a somewhat different way. Mary could not have been idle or neglectful, else the Lord would not have commended her. I have no doubt but that she did all that was necessary, evidently all that the Lord thought necessary, and then she found time to sit at Jesus' feet and hear His word. Martha wanted more than either her sister or the Lord thought needed and was a bit put out with Mary for not thinking as she did.

Happy are those housekeepers who would rather please the Lord than their visitors and who always count upon the Lord as one of the guests. Simple fare is more acceptable to Him, who was oft content with bread and fish, than the superfluities of life.

Although Martha did not serve as care free as Mary on this occasion, yet it is written, "Now, Jesus loved Martha and her sister and Lazarus" (John xi, 5). He loved them all. But why is Martha there mentioned by name and not her sister? Is it because weakest lambs have largest share of the shepherd's love?

Was it for the same reason that He gave Simon Peter a special interview alone on the resurrection day? (Luke xxiv, 34). After the resurrection of Lazarus He was again in this loved home, and Mary anointed him beforehand for his burial. They made Him a supper, and Martha served, but there is no further mention of her being commended (John xii, 1-7).

The life of a railroad man, especially station agents and those who must deal with the traveling public, is not a pleasant one; he must brook the ill temper and often insults of all classes of people. He comes in contact with those who are called from their warm beds at unearthly hours to catch early trains, and whose tempers are as a matter of course not of the sweetest, he must brook the irritability of the dyspeptic and the professional groucher, and with all he must keep his own temper wholly untroubled and wear a perpetual smile, although oftentimes he would like to come around in front and punch respectability and politeness into his tormentors.

In the selection of people to occupy such position, competency is not the only requirement, particular stress is placed upon the fact that they must exercise forbearance, even under the most trying circumstances. In other words they are paid to be polite and politeness to the fullest measure is absolutely exacted of them by their employers. The Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co. is distributing among its employees a little pamphlet by David Gibson entitled "Courtesy", and the advice and instruction embodied in that small pamphlet might prove of inestimable value to people in other walks of life besides railroad work.

We give below as much as possible of the splendid advice offered in the little work.

"Common courtesy is the business of every man who meets the public, in any capacity, be it ever so humble.

Courtesy becomes a part of his trade, to be applied in the face of resistance, the same as it is a part of a carpenter's trade to apply a jack-plane on cross grained wood, knots and even an occasional nail head.

"The man at the ticket window, the local agent, the gateman, the conductor, the trainman, or any man whose business it is to come in individual contact with the public, if he becomes skillful in his work, must learn to restrain himself from often doing that which is every man's natural instinct to do in meeting discourteous, impatient and unreasonable people.

If he is unable to do this he is unsuited by nature for his job.

On a railroad, for instance, the man at the ticket window, the local agent, the gateman, the conductor, and the trainman are the only point of contact between the public and those who manage the property for the thousands of stockholders who own it.

Every man has ambition enough. Every man in every position wants to mount higher, but merely wanting does not get him higher.

It is his performance of the immediate job that gets him higher.

Any man, in any position, who can suppress himself and return the good will of the institution that employs him for the ill will of that part of the public who will display it, is surely making his own prosperity; making of himself a manager of men rather than just a man among men,—all by the working out of a very simple, natural law."

The pamphlet is apparent y, but neatly worded bits of admonition, but in fact is direct instructions, a miniature "book of rules", from which should any one of its employees deviate, and that deviation be reported to those "higher up", the erring employee will be strictly disciplined, even to the point of losing his position.

As a result of these rigid instructions, railroad employees are as a usual thing polite and accommodating. Occasionally we find an exception, but should his shortcomings reach the ears of his superiors, he will soon find himself forced to either mend his manners or seek other employment.

The ladies of the Baptist church will have an exchange at W. B. Ball's store, next Saturday.

DEATHS.

Mrs. Nickell's Mother Dies In Carlisle.

Mrs. Lucy Burnam Rice died at her home in Carlisle Monday after a lingering illness of tuberculosis. Mrs. Rice was 56 years of age and was one of the most highly respected ladies of Carlisle. She was the mother of Mrs. S. H. Nickell, wife of Prof. Nickell who was formerly connected with the Public Schools at this place, but who is now Principal of the Graded school at Harrodsburg.

Robinson.

The many friends of Miss Bettie Robinson, the popular teacher in the Lancaster High School, will be deeply grieved to learn of the death of her aged mother which occurred at her home in Campbellsville, on Wednesday morning. Mrs. Robinson's illness has extended over a lengthy period and was due to hardening of the arteries. Miss Robinson was called to her bedside two weeks ago, but her condition showed such improvement as to allow her to return to her duties in the school at this place, but recently she showed a marked decline and Miss Robinson again hastened to her bedside. The funeral obsequies will be held in Campbellsville today, Thursday. Miss Robinson has the sincere sympathy of the entire community in her bereavement.

Flannery.

Mrs. Nora O'Hearn Flannery, wife of Mr. Walker Flannery, died at the home of her father Mr. Thomas O'Hearn near Harrodsburg Tuesday morning after an illness of only a few days. The deceased was 25 years of age and was married to Mr. Flannery in October 1912. Funeral services were conducted at the home of Mr. Thomas O'Hearn at 8 o'clock this, Thursday morning, by Father O'Brien of Richmond, after which all that was mortal of this estimable young matron was placed at rest in the Lancaster cemetery.

Besides the sorrowing husband and parents, the deceased is survived by a bright babe, a boy a week old, and by four sisters and six brothers, all of whom with the exception of one sister who lives in Louisville and was unable to come, were present at the funeral. Mrs. Flannery was a bright and attractive young woman and had a host of friends throughout the county to all of whom it will be a source of deep grief that she should be taken just as she was blossoming into young womanhood.

Whittaker.

Mr. Arch Whittaker died at his home near Yates Center Kansas on January 9th and his remains were interred in the cemetery at Yates Center on the following Sunday. Mr. Whittaker was about 75 years of age and had been in declining health for some months previous to his death.

The deceased was born in Madison county, but the greater part of his life was spent in Garrard, up to about twelve years ago when he moved to Kansas, settling near Yates Center where he has since made his home. He married Miss Martha West, a daughter of Turpin West of Madison county. He is survived by three sons, Messrs James, Turpin and Robert Whittaker of Yates Center, the latter having married Miss Bruce Humphrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Humphrey of Lancaster, and by one daughter who resides in Kansas City.

Arch Whittaker is well remembered in Garrard county, where he ranked as one of our very best citizens. He lived in various parts of the county and won a place of esteem in every community in which he dwelt. He was a member of and an active worker in the Christian church, and was a man of the strictest integrity, and innumerable friends here at his old home are deeply grieved at the news of his death.

Salter.

It was with sincere regret that the news was received in Lancaster of the death of Captain Mike Salter, which occurred at the Confederate Soldiers Home at Pewee Valley Ky. on last Thursday and his remains were buried in the cemetery adjoining the institution on the following day, after funeral services in the Chapel of the Home conducted by Rev. A. N. White.

The burial was conducted with military honors by the comrades who whose side he fought during the Civil war. He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Mattie Grinnam of Louisville. Capt. Salter has been in failing health for several years, but his death was the result of a fall down the steps of the institution, which he sustained several months ago.

Michael Salter was born in Lancaster on the 13th, day of November 1839. His entire life up to the last few years was spent among the scenes of his childhood. Several years ago he went to live with his sister Mrs. Osee Bush in St. Louis Mo., but owing to failing health he came back to the Home at Pewee and the latter days of his life were spent with his old comrades whom he loved so well. At the outbreak of the Civil war he enlisted in the cause of the Confederacy and became a Captain in General Forrest's brigade, and served in that capacity until the cessation of hostilities. He was an intrepid soldier and leader and participated in many of the leading engagements of that bloody war. After the war he returned to his home in Lancaster, following various pursuits, he at one time being connected with the Internal Revenue service. At the outbreak of the Spanish American war his patriotism again prompted him to seek service, and it was doubtless owing to his activities during that time that his health was broken. Captain Salter was never married. He was connected with many of the leading families of the county.

There was never a more popular man in the county than "Uncle Mike" or "Capt. Mike" as he was lovingly known to his host of friends and acquaintances.

With an ever ready fund of anecdote, he was the center of a group of friends wherever he chanced to be, and he never failed to amuse and interest them with his stories of campfire and engagement, with a keen sense of the ludicrous, a ready wit, he was at all times a splendid and genial companion. A kind and tender-hearted, wholesomely gentleman, not a person in Garrard county who knew him, and there are a few who did not, but will have a sigh or shed a tear of regret at his passing.

Here To Stay.

Retribution Overtakes Him At Last.

Nash, commonly known as "Bunk" Raum, Danville's most persistent and notorious blind tiger operator has at last been placed behind the bars. Raum has been selling liquor illegally in Danville for a great number of years. He has been arrested and convicted time and again, and has paid out a fortune in fines, but has always by some hook or crook managed to evade the jail sentence. However, this time after fighting his cases through all the courts unsuccessfully, he has been landed in jail with a 150 day sentence to his credit. Raum owns nice residence property and a well equipped livery stable in Danville.

That Extra Help.

Editor the Advocate:
I have read with interest the discussion, pro and con, concerning the employment of extra help in the legislature, as published in recent issues of the Advocate.

At the outset I want to say that heretofore I had made up my mind to vote for Gov. J. C. W. Beckham for United States Senator, but at this time I am on the fence.

According to the Louisville Post, Interior Journal and Elizabethtown News, all strong Beckham papers, the Legislature was organized by Beckham and only Beckham men were given jobs. In other words, Beckham was in complete control. That he was in complete control has never been denied, but in fact has been admitted freely by both his friends and enemies.

It is a self evident fact, therefore, that Governor Beckham and his members were responsible for the employment of the extra help at great expense to the taxpayers. To make the proposition plain—if Gov. Beckham could put over his entire slate with perfect ease, which is admitted on all sides—then he could have as easily knocked out the extra help resolution, which, if not vetoed by Gov. McCreary, will cost the people something like $12,000 at a time when the State is in very serious need of funds.

To me it is apparent that the extra help was added to assist in building up a Beckham machine at the expense of the taxpayers and in direct violation of the constitution of Kentucky.

Thirty-nine extra people were given employment which, in connection with the regular employees provided by the constitution, must certainly provide at least one man to "help" every two members of the legislature. To those familiar with conditions at Frankfort it is an easy matter to understand that all these extra people are a disadvantage to the speedy conduct of the business of the General Assembly, as they are naturally in the way of each other. Judging by the evidence at hand, Beckham's control of the Legislature is proving an expensive proposition to the tax-ridden people of Kentucky, and for one I am on the fence, almost ready to take footing on the opposite side.

DEMOCRATIC TAXPAYER.

The above article is taken from the Danville Advocate, and we heartily agree with "Democratic Taxpayer" except as to being "on the fence". Our foothold has long since been strong ly secured on what we believe to be the right side.

One of the most enjoyable events of the season was given the Seniors by the Juniors Friday evening from 8 to 12 at the reception halls at the handsome new school building on Lexington street. The halls were artistically decorated in the Junior class colors, black and gold with yellow cysanthemums and ferns. Right Of Motor And Horse On Street Equal.

The substitution of motor for animal power to transport freight through the public thoroughfares has called for a definition of the relative rights and duties of each class of vehicles in respect to the public roads and highways. When the motor truck first appeared on the public thoroughfares, many of those using horses were antagonistic to the power-propelled commercial vehicle, mainly because horses took fright at the horseless truck, and the question naturally arose as to the rights of a motor truck in using the streets and roads which heretofore had been used exclusively by horses. There were those radical and narrow enough to say that the owner of a motor truck had no right to use the highway.

The right to use the public highways having been settled in favor of the power propelled vehicle, questions arose regarding what the motor vehicle driver could do and could not do in the manner of driving. He was legally on the road, not to stand still, but to move. How should he navigate his vehicle? Why, just the same as the horse driver, except that he should stop if he found that his car was causing fright to a horse.

Aside from stopping for a frightened horse, the driver of a motor truck has no more duties, and as many rights as the horse driver. The rights of each in the use of the highway are equal.

Buena Vista Letter.

Most of the tax for transportation has been collected in the Buena Vista Consolidated school district, the transportation wagons have been paid for, and all charges for transportation have been paid to date.

The transportation service is so popular that the School Board found it necessary to buy the fifth wagon. This new wagon runs on the High Bridge route, but takes the dirt road at the old Lindendale School House and follows it to Mrs. Evans gate. Mr. John H. Mayes drives this wagon for the sum of $35, per month.

When the new wagon was put on this route it became necessary to call in the contract of Joseph Hamilton who had contracted to haul all children in the Lindendale district, but whose wagon would not hold more than two thirds of the children. This route was relet, and Homer Jennings offered the lowest bid. The trustees contracted with him to haul the children along the main pike from High Bridge to the school building for $39.95 per month.

We now have a fourth teacher Miss Myrtle Ruble, who has been with us since Christmas.

The new partition put in by Mr. Geo. Smith of Lancaster is a piece of work to be admired. The schools on either side of it are not bothered by noise, then it is easily pushed upward throwing the two rooms together for chapel services.

We have had trouble with the heating plant, but it is now doing nicely. Mr. Haselden has finished his work on the system by connecting the furnace with the cistern, and placing a force pump in the basement.

We are looking forward with pleasure to February 2, 1914. At that time the Rowlands are to be with us. They come to us on their way to Texas in service of their Bureau. It is only by accident that we get them for 20 per cent of the gross receipts since the bureau prices them at $85, per night. Mr. Rowland is to deliver his wonderful lecture, "Blowing Bubbles" assisted by his wife who is a Cartoonist and illustrates the lecture.

We are organizing the boys of Buena Vista into a corn club, and hope to be able to offer some nice cash prizes for the best corn grown by any boy, and the greatest number of bushels per acre. One of our good men has started the movement off by offering to give $5, toward the prize money. We will not be willing to stop short of $25, for each first prize with liberal second prizes.

We have just received thirty five new books for the school library. This makes our library number over 100 volumes. All of our books may be drawn by the children or the people of the community except about twenty volumes of reference works which are to be used in the school room only.

No children were ever more eager to learn than the children of Buena Vista. Many of them read two volumes per week outside of school.

We do not let outside reading or any thing interfere with our daily recitations which we consider the thing of greatest value offered by any school. Most of the preparation for recitation is done at home. We do not have but very few pupils who make a outside preparation.

We are sending a roll of honor with this letter. We consider pupils worthy of promotion provided they stand 70 or above in all of the branches required in their grade, and pupils who stand 80 or above worthy of honor.

TIMMINS' RENUNCIATION

By HORACE DEMING.

Bob Timmins was only a wood-worker and worked in the finishing room of the big factory. He had no education and could hardly read and write. He had drifted through life until he was twenty-eight, spending what money he earned carelessly, and the future had no definite shape or form to him.

When Bob was twenty-six a new influence entered his life. He fell blindly and desperately in love with Minnie Carson, the pretty daughter of the foreman.

She had a good education, having been sent to the Whooptown Female seminary after graduating from the public schools. Also she was ambitious and belonged to literary clubs. Once she had a piece in the Daily Palladium. It was in the form of a communication, was nearly a column long and was signed with her name in full, Minnie Minerva Carson. It was entitled "The Status of the Women of Ancient Greece Compared With That of the American Women of Today." Bob had seen it and treasured the paper among his few valuables. Had he heard the comment of the editor of the Palladium, "I don't know what in thunder it means, but we've got to give the women a show or down goes the circulation," he might not have felt so much awe.

The one great thought the piece in the paper gave Bob was that to acquire this divinity he would have to lift himself to a plane somewhat approaching hers. He was confirmed in this idea by overhearing a bit of conversation between Miss Carson and Stokes, the assistant secretary of the company, who was very sweet to Miss Carson.

One day they stood near where Bob was working and he overheard their conversation. It was all about books and authors and plays and philosophy and poetry and theories of life and things of which Bob had a very dim comprehension. But his love was overmastering and when once he recognized his passion he set about finding a way to gratify it with the same dogged persistence that had made him the best workman in the shop. Grasping the idea that learning was the first step to put him within hailing distance of the maiden of his choice he enrolled himself in a night school and began slowly to master the rudiments.

In the meantime Stokes had been intrinsically himself more and more in Miss Carson's heart. He was handsome, college bred, of a good family with a position in the best society drawing a good salary and with every reason to anticipate rapid advancement and a liberal inheritance. It was altogether natural that Miss Carson should regard him with favor.

But Bob knew that Stokes was not all that the husband of Miss Carson should be and he bided his time. His opportunity came. He was waiting for a street car one day when Stokes came down the street. Just as he was passing Bob a woman met him. She greeted him with a broken-hearted cry.

"Harry, Harry," she cried. "Oh where have you been? Why have you deserted me?"

Stokes pulled the pathetic, weeping creature into a hallway out of sight, but Bob could not help hearing what was said.

"You promised to marry me, you know you did, a hundred, five hundred times. And after it was too late you ran away and I found that you had lied to me and that I do not even know your real name."

What Stokes said was in so low a voice Bob did not hear it. But the woman replied:

"I don't want to be taken care of in that way. I want an honest name for myself and my child. I can work my fingers off for food and shelter, but I want an honest name—and I want you, Harry, because I love you."

Stokes said something else and they went up the stairs in the office building.

"Mr. Timmins,"

Bob turned and encountered a white face close to his. It was that of Minnie Carson. She evidently had heard the conversation in the stairway. His heart gave a great, triumphant leap.

"Was that Mr. Stokes talking to that girl in there? I came along just after they went in. From the glimpse I got I thought it was he. Was it?"

Bob never thought so fast in his life. As he looked into the anxious eyes and drawn face of the girl he realized in a flash that she loved Stokes and that the truth would break her heart.

"No, it was not Stokes," he said simply.

"Thank God," said the girl, breaking into a sunny smile. "Thank you and pardon me for my idle curiosity."

And she tripped lightly down the street, leaving Bob with a leaden heart.

OLD DOG REJOINS MASTER

Faithfulness of Dumb Animal Won Appreciation That Took the Form of Practical Assistance.

Although every one pitied him and wanted to be kind to him and there was not a home in the town that would not have been glad to take him in and keep him, Bruce, a shepherd dog, wandered disconsolately about the streets of an Arkansas town. He was pining for the only master he had ever known. For fifteen years he had had all that a dog wants—a good home and somebody to love continuously, and now that his old master had gone away to California he was broken-hearted. Perhaps, too, he grieved over his master's fallen fortunes and the fact that he had failed in business and had been compelled to remove to another place. Surely it was a hard fate that parted an ever-faithful dog from his life-long friend.

But kind eyes and sympathetic hearts noted the old dog as he tramped wearily around the town, seeking the one who was all the world to him and refusing to attach himself to any other.

Touched by the dog's misery, some one proposed that a collection be taken to send Bruce to California to his master. The suggestion met with enthusiastic approval. The hat was passed and it required but a few minutes to secure enough money.

One of the old dog's friends made a crate, furnished it with enough food to last him a week, and Bruce was started on his long journey to rejoin his master.

And now, in the town where Bruce lived so long, they miss their old favorite; but a warm glow comes over the heart when some one remarks about the happiness that must have come to the faithful old fellow when he found his master.

CAN LEARN FROM THE PAST

Poultry Breeders of Today Might Profit by a Study of Methods Used by the Egyptians.

The announcement is made by a British scientist that he has discovered how the ancient Egyptians incubated chickens to the number of 120,000,000 a year. He has found incubators which he declares were used in Egypt 5,000 years ago.

The secret has been well guarded, but it is laid bare at last. They had no oil stoves or gas or electric heated incubators, but they had ovens which worked much better, even though they required more constant tending. Each oven was calculated to hold 7,000 eggs, and the fuel by which it was heated consisted of chopped straw and dung, but for the last ten days of the hatching the energy was supplied altogether by the chickens themselves.

It is the commonest error of those operating our modern incubators to use too much heat, especially toward the end of the period, and now we may learn from the old Egyptians how not to do things as well as how to do them. The use of the straw and other light fuel shows that the Egyptians were most careful to avoid too intense heat at any stage. We thought that we were the first to use incubators, but we are fifty centuries behind the times.

How to Keep Eggs Eleven Months.

One of the oldest methods of preserving eggs is to dip them in a bath of silicate of soda, or "liquid glass," but recently the wisdom of this method has been questioned, it being said that the eggs absorb silicate in sufficient amount to make them unfit to be eaten.

Dr. Bartlett, an English chemist, has been testing eggs so preserved, and has proved that if the bath contains free soda the eggs absorb it and their whites become like jelly. But when a ten per cent. solution of silicate of soda is used there is none of this absorption. After being immersed for eleven months the eggs contain no more silica than when fresh. They are in very much better condition than when preserved for the same length of time by freezing, as the pores of their shells are hermetically closed.

Spondylotherapy.

Spondylotherapy is the gospel of seeing red. It has been invented and promulgated by a San Francisco physician, and already numbers its little squad of devotees.

The spondylotherapists declare that red is the greatest human energizer. A man or woman who is an habitual victim of weariness may be stirred to ambition and activity by wearing a red shirt, red stockings or a red necktie. A room papered or painted a glaring red is the ideal workshop. Redness tends to bring out the maximum of human efficiency. There is no case of laziness so serious that it cannot be cured by persistent spondylotherapy treatment.

Why He Left Scotland.

At a Caledonian banquet in London a Scotsman who had settled in the metropolis made a speech, in which Scotland and all things Scottish were so fulsomely praised that an Englishman, who sat next him, said when he had finished:

"If Scotland is all that you Scotsmen say it is, why don't you stay there instead of coming here?"

"Weel," answered the Scotsman. "Ah'll tell ye hoo it wis wif me. When Ah wis in business in Pitt Ah fand a fowk wis just as cliver as meel an' Ah cudna gar the twa on's meet. Sae Ah cam' awa' Sooth, an' sin' syre, man, Ah've been daein' rale weel."

ANOTHER HIGH SALE

AT THE

Old Shelburne Warehouse

Owned by the Lexington Tobacco Warehouse Company

and managed by J. Leslie Knight and James

C. Stone.

275000 pounds of tobacco were sold at the old Shelburne House Tuesday at high prices and the farmers were well pleased, most of this tobacco was grown in Garrard county and a crop belonging to Posey and Broadus of 3265 pounds sold for an average of $19.40 which is the highest average for any crop this week, the following are some other crops which sold for high averages.

C. B. Bolton, Garrard county 2185 lbs. average $16.82, Sam Sutton, Garrard county 3635 lbs. average $16.31, T. F. and J. H. Prewitt, Garrard county 3215 lbs. average $16.40, Murphy and Jennings, Garrard county 5310 lbs. average $15.57, Wilson Bros. Fayette county, 1960 lbs. average $16.24; J. B. and W. B. Graves, Scott county 4665 lbs. average $15.50, Michell and Lyon, Bourbon county, 15305 lbs. average $14.75, and many other crops selling above 15 cents average. These prices are due to the splendid light and the fact that Les Knight and Jim Stone gives each customer tobacco their individual attention. Ask somebody who has sold with them and see what they say.

James Ray Arrested.

About three years ago James Ray colored, and Mr. James I. Hamilton rented of Mrs. Hannah Sweeney her large blue grass farm below Bryansville and engaged extensively in farming and stock trading. Ray purchased a lot of mules and Hamilton sent down a number to the place and they were thrown together indiscriminately. Ray disposed of all the mules, holding that they were owned jointly by Hamilton and himself. Last December Ray moved to St. Louis Mo. without ever having settled up the partnership affairs between himself and Hamilton. On last Monday he was brought to Lancaster by officer Jordan Peel of Nicholasville, who went to St. Louis for him, arresting him on a warrant charging him with stealing a mule. Ray returned to Kentucky without a requisition. His examining trial is set for today, and will be held before Judge Arnold in the county court.

Prof. Ben Evans School To Close.

Ben Evans will have finished a Free School at Coy, Ky. by March the 1st, 1914.

He reports 98 in the district and an enrollment of 65; and an average attendance of 41.

The school at first labored under serious disadvantages. A couple of young lady teachers who were first class teachers failed to discipline the incorrigible. Prof. Evans was secured as he claimed to make incorrigibles a specialty.

One of the patrons knocked him in the head in nine days after he commenced to teach. He recovered inside of three weeks, and returned to his post, and has had a good school ever since. The patron who struck him, removed to an adjoining county. And those remaining have taken much interest in a Winter Free School.

Prof. Evans wishes us to announce to the public that he is now ready to teach a spring term of three months in any place wherever he is called.

Rev. H. M. DeMoss Resigns.

Rev. H. M. DeMoss who has been the pastor of the Baptist church at Buckeye for the past year, resigned at the business meeting Saturday afternoon Jan. 10th.

His sermon Sunday morning was delivered in a very impressive manner, his subject being, Light, Life and Liberty. After the prayer service at Mr. Robert Long's Sunday evening, the members took leave of the pastor with a farewell handshake and many eyes were dimmed with tears as the meeting came to a close.

He had always been very faithful to his church, tried to do his duty under all circumstances, and had made many friends, especially among the young people, always anxious for them to do something in behalf of the church and had he stayed here had planned to organize a young peoples meeting which would have encouraged them to manifest more interest in religious work. He was at all times willing and ready to visit the sick and was naturally gifted in the art of making appropriate prayers in behalf of his friends.

Thoughtful, vigorous, considerate and sound, his ministry will be a benediction to any church. M. P. A.

SOPHIE'S GENEROSITY

By EVELYN HOGE.

Sophie sat bolt upright beside her mother and listened with wide round eyes. In the first place there was a strange man in Doctor Stewart's pulpit and he talked in a ringing resonant voice and his words rushed as if he were afraid he would not have time to say all he wanted to say. Doctor Stewart almost drawled and did not lean over the pulpit edge with nervous hands outstretched as did this man. So this man was well worth watching.

The man was telling an absorbing tale of his missionary work in a certain section of the country. When he ended he said simply but forcibly that the people among whom he worked needed anything and everything. "Not only money," he said, "but clothes, all the necessities of life. Think of what I have told you and give freely!"

Sophie hopped-skipped alongside her mother when they reached the open air. "What are we goin' to give?" she inquired breathlessly.

Sophie's mother laughed shortly. "I haven't any idea," she said. "We sent all our old clothes to the mission. I'm short of money. I need a great many things myself and if I do get any money there's that tea I must give."

Sophie's mind wandered. Teas were vague things that required little girls to stay upstairs. "That child is possessed," Sophie's mother said later in the day, when for the sixth time Sophie begged to know what they could give the missionary's people. "Goodness me! As if one wasn't driven nearly crazy with hands out on every side! Don't bother me now—oh, we'll send something."

It was the next day that Sophie sat thinking. Mother had said they would send something, but mother was out for the day and nothing had been sent. Sophie slid down from the couch and wandered about, frowning. Maybe the poor people were freezing to death at that very moment.

She decided that she might as well save her mother the trouble of sending things, inasmuch as her mother's consent had been won. Sophie proceeded to her mother's large closet.

For a moment she stood sniffing delightedly the faint fragrance of violet sachet that emanated from all the things decorously clothed in overhangers and hanging in a straight row on the brass rod that ran across the little room. Then she set to work.

She rubbed her hands delightedly over the violet velvet dress. That could go—mother had said the last time she wore it that she just hated it because Celeste had botched it. The poor folks would be glad of it even if it was botched. They could wear it to market or something.

And that pink chiffon evening dress—hadn't mother remarked that she simply never would wear the thing again after what Mrs. Smith said about a woman of her age appearing in girlish clothes?

There was the blue serge, too—certainly mother could give that when she had three other cloth dresses.

And here were five coats—well, this looked most like being given away, the brown, silky one, with the nice fur collar and fur cuffs. It was remarkable how easily everything compressed into a suitcase.

There would be plenty of room for some things of father's for some poor, freezing man. After searching through the garments in father's closet and anxiously studying them Sophie decided on a suit father didn't seem to care about. At any rate, he never wore it.

Sophie carefully folded up the long tailed coat and the rest of the things and added them to the suitcase. She took a handful of socks for good measure. It happened that her hands landed in the end of the drawer devoted to her parent's slippers. Then with a relieved sigh she snapped shut the suitcase and slipped out.

"From mother" Sophie told the women at the church who were receiving things for the missionary box. She beamed angelically.

"What a good little girl to carry this all the way!" said one of the women.

That evening Sophie's mother had an excited conversation over the telephone. Then she said to Sophie's father: "It's only because the suitcase had my name on it that they knew whom to call up. Your dress suit—and my new marten trimmed coat—and my best gowns—why, it's perfectly dreadful!"

Sophie's father chuckled. He meditated on the dress suit. "I almost wish," he said, darily, "that there hadn't been any name on the suitcase. Sophie's heart is in the right place, anyway."—Chicago Daily News.

A Revelation. Wife—I haven't a gown left to wear. Husband—Jove! That's the reason none of the servants will stay here.

MOST OF THE WORLD'S KNOWLEDGE IS BASED ON NEWSPAPERS. YOU MUST READ THEM IF YOU WOULD KNOW WHAT IS GOING ON.

A Scheme Which Appears Plausible.

Cap't. William Herndon who in addition to being an able attorney, is also somewhat a humorist and combining with this and many other accomplishments, gives considerable attention to home gardening, heretofore with marked success. During the season of last summer which was very dry, he tells us his Irish potato crop was a failure, the tubers either failing to mature or drying up for want of moisture. To prevent a recurrence of such a catastrophe another season the inventive Captain tells us of a scheme which he proposes to adopt, the originality of which we cannot vouch for, but its ludicrousness is striking; during the coming season he proposes to plant his Irish potatoes and onions in alternate rows, in order that the "strong odor" from the onions may get into the eyes of the potatoes, cause them to water, and thus provide sufficient moisture to insure a liberal harvest of his favorite vegetable". Cap't. Herndon's experiment will doubtless be watched with interest by the leading seedsmen of the country, and should it prove success, he will be another "wizard" in the line of gardening.

$20,000 Worth Of Livestock Dies Of Strange Disease In Henderson

It is estimated that $20,000 worth of live stock has died in Henderson county from spinal meningitis during the past few months.

It is Dr. Youngblood's theory that the so-called "strange disease" is due almost wholly to the use of corn or other feed that has not matured properly. He says:

"The disease which is killing so many horses and cattle in Henderson county and in neighboring counties is caused by germs or a certain low class of bacteria, from mouldy, musty or meadow corn or feed.

"This is peculiar to years when there has been a drouth, flood or conditions that prevent feed from maturing properly. Of course the germs or bacteria cannot be seen by the naked eye, but one can see that the feed is blackened and in an unfit condition for feed. Sometimes the cob is black and sometimes the grain itself is blackened, as can be seen by cutting it.

"The toxin of poison from the feed works on the meninges or covering of the brain. The system of the animal becomes thoroughly saturated with the poison before there is any outward indication of anything wrong. Sometimes there is no suspicion of anything wrong until the owner goes to the barn in the morning and finds the animal dead. Others live but a few hours.

Kentucky Editors Talk About The Legislature.

Probably every member of the state Legislature has one or more bills in his pocket to be presented for the consideration of that body. There are too many laws already, many of which are not enforced. Some of the existing laws might be improved by making changes in them, but there is no need for many new ones. Too much legislation is the curse of every State—Georgetown Times.

If the Assembly members are as good at law-making as they are at turkey-trotting, this will be a brilliant session.—Frankfort State Journal.

"Extra help" seems to be a pretty big item with this Legislature as it has practically agreed to employ extra stenographers, assistant doorkeepers, messengers, etc., to the extent of $150 to $160 per day, or a total during the session of about $10,000 to $12,000. Much of this is unnecessary and ought not be spent.—Park City Daily News.

The Legislature as usual has started in to fitter away its time, having adjourned until next Monday, Dr. McCormack's plan to organize promptly and get down to business seems to have miscarried, altho everybody agreed that it was a good plan to adopt.—Park City Daily News.

If the Legislature were confined to the Governor's recommendations, no relief could be had at this session. It's a pity that in this hour of dilemma and impending peril, the State's chief executive should be lacking wisdom to recommend, or courage to press measures of real relief, whether his own immediate popularity might suffer next August or not.—Lexington Leader.
